Politics in Fauquier County.

Correspondence of the Alexandria Gazette. FAUGUIER COUNTY, Oct. 7 .- Having been accidentally present in Upperville, on Satarday last, it was my privilege to listen to a most able and interesting discussion between the County Electors, Col. John E. Scruggs, and Charles B. Tebbs, esq. The first as the friend of Bell and Everett, and the second as the champion of Breckinridge and Lane. A very respectable crowd had assembled on a short notice, including some of the fairest portion of our population who seemed to enjoy the speaking very much. The discussion commenced about 2 o'clock. P. M., Mr. Tebbs leading off in a speech of fifty minutes, during which time he labored hard to make the people believe that John Bell was not to be trusted for one moment by Southern men. From the manner in which Mr. T. was received while attempting to impeach Col. Bell's fidelity to South- to make, and no terms to accept of, save the ern Institutions, it was plainly demonstrated that the crowd in attendance did not participate in the views of the speaker .-After reading a great many passages from the Globe and other documents, the orator then took up a copy of the Warrenton Whig and read an editorial written therein by Col. Scruggs in 1856, in which that gentleman warmly approved of the repeal of the everywhere the National Democratic party Missouri Compromise at that time. How Col. S. replied will be seen presently. Mr. Tebbs then went off into a tirade against Mr. Botts, Mr. Pendleton, and others, whom | cal character of the State is quite probable. he pronounced unsound upon the great question of slavery, and wound up his speech by a eulogy on Breckinridge, not once mentioning the name of poor old "Jowe Ane," eracy of the Union. His course towards as I have lately seen his name spelt from a Judge Douglas, in Illinois, was calculated Democratic paper. It is also a matter of fact that on this occasion he never once mentioned Douglas's name, and probably would sound Democrat from him. The politicians have said nothing afterwards, had not his are becoming daily more corrupt: they regallant adversary requested him to define his position. Col. Scruggs on rising was greeted with that in obedience to the call of his party he had buckled on his armor in this contest, and would not take it off until the contest should close, and the issue of the struggle an appointment, not a nomination. From should be decided. A great contest was being waged. PLEASANT DALE, RAPPAHANNOCK COUNTY, Oct. 6 .-- Having a few moments to spare, l propose to give your a short account of the things and doing in politics in this region of the State, we, the Democracy, here, are discomforted, divided and subdivided. The Bell and Everett party are united, and are quite sanguine of success, so far as this State is concerned. And why should they not be so? We, the Democracy, I mean the National Democracy, have no compromise laying down the arms of the Breckinridge party. We, the Democracy, will never surrender Non-Intervention, though we may have to choose in the coming spring campaign between Democrats and Whigs .--Non-intervention is the only ground that national men of any party can stand on.
